

To Whom It May Concern:

I am disheartened by the recent decision made by Sinclair Broadcasting to require its many stations all over the country to run a blatantly partisan "documentary" just a few days before this year's presidential election. This is a clear violation of the law and a perfect example of what happens when huge companies control too much of our media.

Sinclair has the opportunity to use public airwaves free of charge, but along with that opportunity comes the responsibility to make people who want to run blatantly partisan broadcast pieces pay for their time.

The FCC should move to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them. We need our media to be responsible, not reckless. Please work now to address these concerns. Thank you.
